

Watershed-based
Source Protection

Water Treatment
Plant

Multi-Barrier Approach to Water

- ◆ To First Nations a circle is a symbol of strength and unity. Every living creature has their own life cycle which can be viewed in a circular manner as well as everything has a spirit. First Nations believe that the water has its own spirit and therefore is a living force within this world and can be represented as having its own life cycle.
- ◆ The multi-barrier approach to water & water treatment is essential to ensure adequate safe drinking water is available in every First Nation community.